THE VALENTINE AUCTION CO. were made to see the list of persons from whom these articles are said to have been taken during the war, information was denied, and it was with the greatest difficulty that Lord and Lady Banff were located. They were found, however, and admitted that they expected to get back the things which were taken about fifty years ago in Sherman's famous march through Georgia. They were reluctors gia. They were reluctant, however, to gia. They were reluctant, however, to give particulars as to what plan they were following, but it has been learned that if they are successful in their efforts this action may result in the list of persons who lost valuables in silver in the war being made public and in the government's swalltrainer.
